'PAINED SATISFACTION' IS ARAB'S REACTION TO JEWISH SPY SUSPECTS

By YA'ACOV FRIEDLER, Jerusalem Post Reporter. HAIFA. — "The fact that Jews were also arrested in the latest round-up of espionage-sabotage suspects has given me pained satisfaction. This was the first public Israeli Arab reaction to the arrests."

It was made by Mr. Nawaf Masalha, a Histadrut official and member of the Labour Party's Central Committee, speaking at a symposium on "Political Trends among Israeli Arabs" held at the Technion Students Union Auditorium on Sunday night.

He held that the Arabs of Israel "need not identify with the Jewish people, but must be loyal to the State." He thought that Joubran had joined Rakah "because no other party was open to him."

He noted that it had taken tremendous effort and many years to persuade the fellahs of his own village to agree to a common project on installing irrigation pipes on their lands.

Emergency plan to run ports in event of strike

Stevedore walkout set for Dec. 20

By YITZHAK OKED
Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The Ports Authority have drawn up an emergency plan to run the ports in case the stevedore workers in Haifa, Ashdod and Eilat strike on December 20. The plan includes loading and unloading goods at the small port in Gaza.

The spokesman of the Authority declined to confirm or deny the story.

The stevedores threaten to walk out over failure to reach agreement on a new wage contract.

At a press conference yesterday, the Ports Authority Director-General, Mr. Aharon Remes, said the Authority is willing to give the workers benefits equivalent to a 22 per cent increase in their wages. Together with the expected cost-of-living increase of about 10 per cent next month, the rise will come to 32 per cent, which Mr. Remes said was the most the Ports Authority can pay without increasing the port fees.

Mr. Remes said the workers' demands are "much higher."

It is believed that tomorrow's meeting between representatives of the stevedores and Eilat-Asdud officials headed by Secretary-General Yitzhak Ben-Aharon is a result of Government pressure to bring the dispute to an end.

At Ashdod, in the meantime, work was going on as usual, but behind the scenes, "unofficial" negotiations were being held between the management and the stevedores to find a solution to another theory issue, the container-handling norms.

The Ports Authority has been trying for a long time to upgrade the number of containers that a stevedore gang has to load or unload per day. The provisional norm was pegged at three to four containers per day years ago, before the introduction of modern mechanical-lifting machinery. The Authority now wants to raise the norm, while the workers have been delaying and stalling all proposals.

Minister of Transport Shimon Peres brought the two sides together last week at a meeting in his home and raised his own proposal to end the dispute. The workers rejected it, but the Director-General of the Ports Authority is optimistic that they might still accept it.

All sides decline to give details about the proposal.

Bulldozer operator takes a break in Jerusalem's San Martin quarter after loading several olive trees on truck for transportation to the Valley of the Cross. Another truck, in background, carries its load of trees past the cottages at rear.

'Tree-robbers' active again in Jerusalem

By MARY SELMAN
Jerusalem Post Reporter

A few dozen more olive trees disappeared from the slopes of the wadi near Jerusalem's San Martin district Sunday and yesterday — amid ungrazed cries from the residents of the cottages nearby, at least one fistfight with the contractor and protests from the City that it is merely trying to save the trees from ultimate destruction.

The area is variously known as Gonen Tet and San Martin. The residents have been battling over the trees for a number of years. They first became aware of the new plan when a bulldozer and a number of trucks appeared in the area on Sunday and started to uproot trees and load them on to trucks.

Having had experience with an unlicensed contractor who did the same thing a year ago, a number of irate housewives dashed out to the scene and demanded to see this contractor's licence. He produced a letter of authority signed both by the city's beautification department and the Israel Lands Authority.

The contractor was hired to move 60 trees from the slopes of the Marhat Valley for transplantation in the Valley of the Cross.

However, the official Government Survey Department's map of Jerusalem shows the Marhat Valley on the other side of the old Arab village of Malha a full kilometre from the cottages.

The neighbours said that Mayor Teddy Kolek had promised them that the wadi in front of the cottages would be set aside for a park, and sent him a telegram protesting against "beautifying the Valley of the Cross at the expense of our valley."

However, city spokesman Yitzhak Grossman explained yesterday that the Mayor had promised a park in an area more to the west — across from Ramat Denya. The land in question — between the cottages and Rehov Stern in Kiryat Hayovel — will be made into a central business district according to the master plan, he said.

The city ordered the moving of the trees, Mr. Grossman said, when it was learned that the Israel Lands Authority had sold some of this land to a contractor for building purposes. Since "the first thing a contractor does is start tearing down trees," he said, the city contacted the Authority and said it did not want the trees out now. Instead it would move them elsewhere.

The residents do not plan to give up their fight.

They also complain that the city had told them in a meeting they had last year that the plan for their area had not been finalized and should not be before the year 2000. Why move the trees now? they asked.

8 Iraqi Jews said back in prison

Most or all of the eight Iraqi Jews who were recently released from Baghdad prisons have been re-arrested, "Itim" learned from diplomatic sources in Jerusalem yesterday. The Public Council for Jews in Arab Lands is due to meet this evening in Jerusalem to consider what action to take on the matter.

The Council has already called on its chapters in other countries, as well as other public organizations, to mobilize public opinion.

The eight Baghdad Jews were first arrested last October. They were released the following month after considerable pressure was exerted on the Iraqi Government through diplomatic channels and other media. Their release eased the fears of the Iraqi Jewish community, but now they anticipate a new wave of terror and oppression, the sources said.

According to recent reports, the switch in "policy" indicates that more extremist elements in the Iraqi regime have regained — with regard to the Jews at least — the upper hand. (Itim)

Couple guilty of 'sadistic' murder

TEL AVIV. — A young man and his girlfriend were yesterday convicted by the Tel Aviv District Court of strangling a 23-year-old immigrant on a lonely sand dune near Holon last year. The crime motivated by "sadism and jealousy."

The man, Ezra Antar, 20, received a life sentence. The girl, whom the court described as "an unscrupulous sadist," will be sentenced at a later date. The court withheld publication of her name because she was a minor at the time the crime was committed. She is now 18.

The victim, Marco Sa'ada, came to this country in 1968 from Lebanon. He fell in love with the girl, a neighbour of his in Holon, giving her money and presents. The jealous Antar, a drug addict since the age of 13, insisted that the girl stop seeing Sa'ada. On one occasion he beat Sa'ada up.

The prosecution said it was Antar who probably conceived the murder. But it was the girl, more intelligent than he, who planned the actual crime, step by step. One night in May 1971, she lured her suitor to a rendezvous on the sand dunes in Holon, asking him to bring along two bottles of arak.

The girl easily managed to get her boyfriend drunk. After he passed out, Antar, who had been hiding nearby, told the girl to remove the victim's shirt and then strangled him with it.

The murderers then buried the body in a grave they had prepared beforehand. On top of the grave, to repel passers-by from the spot, they laid a dog they had slain. Several days after the murder, Antar returned to the site and attempted to burn the body, but for some reason was unable to complete the job.

Investigating Sa'ada's disappearance, the police questioned the girlfriend. She gave a convincing performance of the jilted lover. The police suspected nothing at the time and let her go.

The murderers' need to brag of their crime proved their undoing. They told their friends about it and word finally got to the police. Questioned separately, each said the other had done the strangling. Their defence broke down in court when the prosecutor, Assistant District Attorney S. Shtrater, exposed major contradictions in their testimony.

The District Court Bench comprised Judges Ze'ev Zeltner, president; Shulamit Wallenstein and Moshe Belsky. (Itim)

Religious Council chief asked not to resign

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The Minister for Religious Affairs, Dr. Zerah Warhaftig, has asked Jerusalem Religious Council head Yehoshua Baruchi to withdraw his resignation as Council Chairman.

Mr. Baruchi resigned on Sunday — because he said he had no hope of restoring good management to the Council so long as three of the four Deputy Chairmen remained in office.

Meanwhile, the Jerusalem Municipality has set up a five-man committee to settle the dispute between Mr. Baruchi and the deputies. The committee comprises Deputy Mayors Menahem Porush, Yehoshua Baruchi, Yehoshua Baruch, and Akiva Asuker and Councilor Shimon Zelman. Deputy Mayor Mr. Baruchi, who believes there have been serious irregularities in several of the Religious Council's departments and that the Deputy Chairmen were aware of them, says he has little confidence that the committee will succeed in finding a satisfactory solution. He says that the committee is politically ased, and therefore has little chance of success.

Reprieve for Jerusalem's German Colony

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The Jerusalem Planning Subcommittee yesterday declared the German Colony a "preservation area." The move, approved by the Local and District planning committees, will mean that no existing building will be torn down without a recommendation by the Urban Planning Unit and that all new buildings will be compatible in character and scale with existing structures.

The Lands Authority is known to have been considering demolishing a number of existing buildings in order to construct high-rise apartment buildings.

Dane to take up post as U.N. Representative

Mr. J.-P. B. Ross, Resident Representative of the United Nations Development Programme since 1964, will be retiring from the service of the United Nations at the end of December 1972.

His successor will be Mr. Finn Munch-Petersen of Denmark, who has served with the United Nations since 1946 in a wide variety of posts, starting with UNRRA in Germany and including two years as Chief Administrative Officer of the United Nations Truce Supervision Organization in Jerusalem in 1956/66. Since 1968, he has been Special Representative of UNDP in Denmark.

Mr. Munch-Petersen is expected to take up his new post around the middle of February 1973.

Mr. Ross has seen more than 20 years of U.N. field service in Asia. During his U.N. career, he served in Burma, the Philippines, Pakistan, Indonesia, Iran and Israel.

Electoral Roll to be closed on May 3

Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter

The Electoral Roll will be closed month later than originally intended in order to include a larger number of voters for the 1973 elections. This was the gist of a new amendment to the Elections Law passed yesterday by the Knesset voted to committee yesterday on the first reading.

Interior Minister Yosef Burg said the Roll would now be closed on May 3. It would include all the changes in electors' home addresses registered in the last population census.

A considerable number of additional immigrants would also have a right to vote, he said.

Another amendment to the Elections Law passed to Committee yesterday will make it possible for policemen who are on duty on election day (to keep order only on polling stations) to vote anywhere.

Non-resident envoy to represent Malta

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Political circles in Jerusalem expressed satisfaction yesterday at the news that Malta has appointed its High Commissioner in London as its non-resident Ambassador to Israel. But relations between Jerusalem and Valetta cooled rapidly and he never presented his credentials. This was during the period of friction between Malta's socialist Premier Don Mintoff and resident Gaddafi of Libya and Malta's dispute with Britain over financial aid to the island.

Observers in Jerusalem construe Mr. Pincus's appointment as signifying an important advance in relations between Malta and Israel.

Pincus said staying on at Jewish Agency

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Jewish Agency Chairman Arye Pincus will not leave his post in order to accept a proffered position in the Bank Leumi, it was reliably understood yesterday.

Mr. Pincus had been reported to be considering an offer to become chairman of the Bank's Board. However, at the request of Labour Party leaders, including Premier Yehuda Meir, and Jewish fund-raising circles abroad, Mr. Pincus has decided to stay on.

He has been Chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive since the death of Moshe Sharett in 1965. In the reconstitution of the Agency last year, he also became chairman of the Zionist Executive.

Court hopes fines make gambling unprofitable

TEL AVIV. — Magistrates' Court Judge Haim Shapiro fined a young gambler ILL,000 yesterday, declaring that gambling could only be curbed by making it unprofitable through high fines.

The youth, Herzl Yitzhak, 20, ran his dice game on Allenby Road.

Sierra Leone to send more students here

LOD AIRPORT. — The Deputy Minister of Health of Sierra Leone said yesterday he hoped Israel would enable his country to send more students to study here.

The Minister, Mr. Leslie Patrick Allen, left yesterday after a week's visit as guest of the Ministry of Health. He told "Itim" he had been most impressed by what he had seen of Israel's youth movements and its handling of youth problems.

EXPORTS WERE $96m. IN NOV.

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Exports during November totalled $96m., compared with $97m. in October, the Central Bureau of Statistics announced this week.

Exports for the first 11 months of this year came to $1,020m., which represented an increase of 21 per cent over the $844m. in the same period last year.

Only 1% of Soviet Jews re-emigrate

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Less than one per cent of the Soviet immigrants who arrived between May and August 1971 left the country during their first year here. Among arrivals from other countries, the departure rate was four per cent.

This is one of the highlights of a recent survey carried out by the Institute for Applied Social Research for the Absorption Ministry. According to the survey, 94 per cent of all Russian immigrants who were here a year after their arrival said they were sure or reasonably sure they would remain in Israel permanently.

The difference in attitude between the Soviet and other immigrants is also evident in the labour area. For example, 73 per cent of the Russian newcomers had joined the civilian labour force within their first year, compared with 51 per cent of the non-Russian immigrants. Seventy-seven per cent of the Russians said they were satisfied with their jobs as against 55 per cent of the other immigrants.

Ford tests them at 150 mph. So they won't let you down at 75 mph.

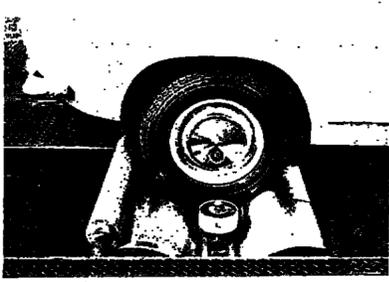

How do we do it? Simple, we put the car on a piece of equipment called a Dynamometer, start the engine, and within seconds the car is undergoing the conditions it would experience travelling at 150 mph. It's nice to know that Ford cars like the new Capri '73 are built to travel well within their capabilities.

This also helps explain why the Capri gives you the kind of first class performance, handling and road-holding you come to expect only from a carroserie built sports car.

The new '73 Ford Capri has been built to be better. It's got a new look, a new feeling when you drive. One thing that remains the same is the power, only now, there's more of it with new 1600 ohc engines. The new long bonnet power bulge means exactly what it says — the Capri is a performance car, and it can out perform and out accelerate most of Europe's best known sports cars. They take the strain out of night driving and make it a lot safer. Safety's also the reason behind the new double banked rear light units. In a '73 Capri you can see and be seen.

Inside, the changes are all for your comfort. We've redesigned the instrument panel and now it's perhaps the best laid out and easiest to read of any car in Europe. And there's no chance of a dial being obscured by the new twin-spoke steering wheel.

We've improved the seats by moulding them to grip your body. So when you take a tight corner, you don't have to hold on to your seat, it holds on to you. New seats, and a slightly softened suspension, make travelling in a new '73 Capri a comfortable, as well as thrilling experience.

Visit your local Ford Dealer, test drive the new Ford Capri '73. And while you're cruising along remember that the car could travel twice as fast and still be just as reliable, just as safe and handle just as well.

U.K. rejects charge of joining France in anti-Israel policy

LONDON (Reuter). — British minister Lord Balfour yesterday denied that the Government was now adopting an anti-Israel policy on the Middle East in league with France.

Lord Balfour, Minister of State at the Foreign Office, made the denial in the House of Commons when he questioned about recent British and French voting in the United Nations.

Conservative Member Philip Goodhart told him: "Some people are concerned that an apparent swing of our foreign policy to a more anti-Israel stance coincides with an attempt to coordinate our policy on the Middle East with that of the French Government."

Lord Balfour replied: "I can assure the House there is no swing, apparent or otherwise, to an anti-Israel stance." He added that the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, was meeting the Israeli Foreign Minister, Mr. Abba Eban, in London yesterday to discuss matters.

Britain had not proposed any new initiative on the Middle East but remained ready to do all it could to bring about a settlement based on the relevant U.N. resolution, he added.

Both the Chinese and Soviet foreign ministries yesterday denied all knowledge of reports of a clash on the border between the two countries last month, in which five Soviet soldiers were said killed.

"I know absolutely nothing on this subject," a Soviet spokesman said in answer to a question.

"As far as we know there was nothing of the kind at all," a Chinese spokesman said. He went on to describe accounts of the incident as "sheer, malicious fabrication and slander."

According to Western diplomatic sources, selected Soviet journalists received confidential details of the clash as background information.

The sources said the report alleged that Chinese intruders crossed into Soviet Kazakhstan and killed the soldiers and a number of shepherds. They were also alleged to have stolen a large flock of sheep.

The Moscow report said the Chinese authorities reportedly disclaimed responsibility on the ground that the intruders were bandits.

Russia, China deny knowledge of clash

By Reuter News Service

Both the Chinese and Soviet foreign ministries yesterday denied all knowledge of reports of a clash on the border between the two countries last month, in which five Soviet soldiers were said killed.

"I know absolutely nothing on this subject," a Soviet spokesman said in answer to a question.

"As far as we know there was nothing of the kind at all," a Chinese spokesman said. He went on to describe accounts of the incident as "sheer, malicious fabrication and slander."

According to Western diplomatic sources, selected Soviet journalists received confidential details of the clash as background information.

Lord Balfour replied: "I can assure the House there is no swing, apparent or otherwise, to an anti-Israel stance." He added that the British Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, was meeting the Israeli Foreign Minister, Mr. Abba Eban, in London yesterday to discuss matters.

Britain had not proposed any new initiative on the Middle East but remained ready to do all it could to bring about a settlement based on the relevant U.N. resolution, he added.

Soviets oust 3 European demonstrators

MOSCOW (AP). — Three West Europeans were expelled from the Soviet Union on Sunday night after distributing political leaflets near Red Square, Italian officials said yesterday.

The demonstrators — an Italian, a Norwegian and a Frenchman — were arrested on Friday and detained for 48 hours by Soviet police before being ousted, the official said.

In response to inquiries from the demonstrators' embassies, the Soviet foreign ministry said the three men were put aboard an Air France flight bound for Paris on Sunday evening.

An Italian organization, called Europa Civica, first reported the arrests on Sunday, saying the three handed out leaflets to publicize the case of political dissident Vladimir Bukovsky who was sentenced to 12 years' deprivation of freedom last January for alleged "anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda."

The Soviet foreign ministry said the three demonstrators were expelled for "activities incompatible with the status of tourists in the U.S.S.R."

The men were identified as Mario Calletti, 22, of Rome; Andre Klentz, 34, of Strasbourg; and Peter Krosby, 28, of Oslo.

Truman feels 'all right'

KANSAS CITY (AP). — The heart of Harry S. Truman continues to show irregularities in rhythm, doctors reported yesterday, but the former president told them "I feel all right" and spent a restful night.

The 83-year-old Truman remained in serious condition yesterday morning, hospital officials said.

Both the Chinese and Soviet foreign ministries yesterday denied all knowledge of reports of a clash on the border between the two countries last month, in which five Soviet soldiers were said killed.

Helsinki security parley to break for a month

HELSINKI (UPI). — The 34 European nations, the U.S. and Canada, preparing a European security conference, yesterday agreed to recess the plenary talks for a month starting on Friday, despite the Soviet's insistence a long break "would not be understood by world public opinion," conference sources said.

But a compromise was finally reached in a "good spirit," they said. The agreement came after an hour-long rare afternoon session where both East and West yielded on their original demands. Western powers had supported a West German proposal to adjourn the talks on Friday and reconvene the meeting on January 23.

Soviet Ambassador Viktor Maltsev, according to the sources, this morning "with a firm voice adamantly expressed the view that a five week recess was unacceptable."

Poland presented the preliminary meeting with a formal document on how to organize the security conference proposed to be held in June next year.

Based on France's suggestion on a three-phased conference Poland proposed the conference would start in June on foreign minister's level for a discussion of fundamental questions and to set up working committees and commissions. Stage number two would be commission work to prepare the third stage and stage number three a meeting on the "highest possible level."

Striking Eurocrats hiss at Market delegates

BRUSSELS (UPI). — Striking Common Market employees hissed permanent representatives of member countries as they went into a meeting yesterday and a session of the ministers of agriculture started without interpreters.

As the 6,000 civil servants of the Market's executive commission and the ministers' council secretariat started a nine-day walk-out, strike leaders said their action was not so much aimed at getting more money, but at defending the principle of yearly adaptations of their salaries.

"We are fed up having to fight all the time to maintain our purchasing power and to protect it against erosion by increasing cost of living," said German official Theodor Holtz, chairman of the strike committee.

"We are not striking in the first place for more money, but for the protection of our incomes," he said.

Eighty-seven per cent of the Market employees — commonly called Eurocrats — voted in favour of the strike. The council of ministers last Saturday, after 27 hours of discussions, failed to agree on a formula on adaptation of wages which was considered acceptable by the strike committee.

The council last March agreed in principle to yearly increases taking into account the rise in cost of living and the increased purchasing power of comparable civil servants in national administrations. This year's adaptation also was to include a one-time increase to catch up on previous adaptation delays.

The Eurocrats' calculative commission made proposals which came very close to that claim. But the best offer the ministers made was 9.45 per cent, rejected as insufficient by the strike committee.

Lost trapper ate mice in Ontario bush

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP). — A 48-year-old trapper says he had to eat mice to stay alive and walked eight days and nights in the remote bush country of northern Ontario before being found.

Two snowmobilers found Andy Mavraco of Gravenhurst about 40 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie Sunday.

Mavraco, who lost 30 pounds in the ordeal, was treated at a Sault Ste. Marie hospital, where his condition was described as good. He returned home yesterday.

"He told us he ate squirrel, partidge and even three mice that he killed in a shack," said Brian Skagen. He said Mavraco looked like he had "bush fright."

"He thought I was going to hurt him, and he was afraid," Skagen recalled. "I thought he was delirious. He kicked off his snowshoes and offered them to me. He said, 'I will give you everything, just get me out of here.'"

Skagen said the trapper was so hungry that when he was given a can of beans, he cut his face trying to stick it into the can.

Germans recover stolen DM1m. Rembrandt

BERLIN (UPI). — West Berlin police yesterday announced the recovery of a stolen Rembrandt painting after a year's search throughout Europe.

A police spokesman said the oil painting, "Flight of the Holy Family to Egypt," which was stolen from a museum in Tours, France, in December, 1971, was recovered here on Friday.

The painting, valued at at least one million Marks ($338,460) was seized when it changed hands for only 100,000 Marks ($33,846), a police spokesman said.

He said a 35-year-old West Berlin sculptor who sold it, was arrested for possessing stolen property. His name and the name of the buyer were not disclosed.

The spokesman said police acted on a tip from Interpol, that the painting was to be sold in Berlin.

West Berlin police, from the Saar in West Germany, and officials of the West German Federal police, acted together to shadow suspects.

The sculptor and the buyer were surprised when the painting and money changed hands, police said.

The sculptor was arrested after he tried to escape in a rented car with the money on the seat next to him.

The 12- by 9-inch oil painting shows the infant Jesus wrapped in a cloak with Mary as they ride on a horse with Joseph walking alongside.

"We can not estimate the true worth of the painting," the police spokesman said. "After all, it is not a commercial object. But certainly the price of a Rembrandt is at least one million Marks and very often more."

Jean Aubert, joint curator of the Museum of Fine Arts in Tours, France, said the theft of the painting took place during the night.

"The thieves got in by breaking a window. At that time there was no alarm system," Aubert said.

He said the painting had never been officially valued. "When the museum sent it outside for an exhibition, it was insured for only 60,000 francs ($12,000) but only because the museum did not have the money to pay high insurance charges," Aubert said.

Pieta restoration ready in 10 days

VATICAN CITY (AP). — The restoration of Michelangelo's Pieta will be completed within the next 10 days, the Vatican radio said yesterday.

The restoration work had been carried out so delicately and perfectly that the damage made by a vandal's hammer last May "will be completely invisible," the radio added.

The Pieta, which depicts the Madonna holding the dead Jesus in his arms, will not go on display immediately in the chapel of St. Peter's Basilica where it has been for centuries and where the repairs were carried out.

The radio said experts needed time to erect a bullet-proof heavy glass shield to protect the masterpiece from vandals. The statue was damaged by a Hungarian-born geologist, Laszlo Toth.

Nothing to indicate skull is Bormann's

WEST BERLIN — Hopes that two skeletons dug up here last week might solve the 27-year old mystery surrounding the disappearance of Hitler's deputy, Martin Bormann, dimmed yesterday when police said preliminary comparison of dental records had proved negative.

The skulls of the two most perfect skeletons were unearthed during cable-laying work near the spot where Bormann, who, if alive today, would be 72, was last seen at the end of the Second World War.

Forensic experts compared them yesterday with Bormann's dental records, which had been brought to the police dental clinic here from the Frankfurt prosecutor's office on Sunday night. But police said there was nothing to indicate that either skull belonged to the world's most wanted Nazi war criminal.

A spokesman said that investigations would continue until it was 100 per cent certain that neither skeleton was that of Bormann.

The skulls with gold teeth of the sort Bormann was said to have had were found on Friday in the Lehrter railway yard near the wall on the East-West Berlin border.

'Libya gov't paid for I.R.A. arms shipment'

LONDON. — It is widely accepted in Beirut that one consignment of arms reached the Provisional Irish Republican Army through Arab sources, the "Financial Times" said here yesterday.

In a report from Dublin, the paper said that it is understood that the weapons concerned were purchased on behalf of the I.R.A. through European buying channels used by Arab terrorists.

"Beirut sources insist that this consignment was paid for by the Libyan government. The transaction is said to have taken place in the spring of last year," the "Financial Times" added.

The newspaper said: "Reports in British newspapers suggesting that considerable supplies of Soviet arms have been going to the I.R.A., variously described as being channelled through Cyprus, Egypt and the Lebanon, were being generally discounted in both government and Republican circles here."

"There have also been persistent reports of a close liaison, available evidence indicating that these contacts have almost exclusively involved the official Sinn Fein movement here and the Palestinian Liberation Organisation."

"Mrs. Mairin de Burca, the joint secretary of the official Sinn Fein, has attended two major Arab conferences in the Middle East but she vigorously denied any Sinn Fein involvement in, or association with, arms deals," the "Financial Times" said.

ists opposed any action as a disaster for the party in the current climate. "Any party which decided to ally itself with a large section of membership would not simply be embarking on a pruning exercise, but on political suicide," one leading official said.

OBSCLETE ROCKET

A British Army spokesman meanwhile said the tail-fin of an obsolete British rocket that exploded on Sunday night killing one soldier and wounding two others was apparently booby-trapped.

It blew up after being carried inside a fortified army outpost in Belfast by an army patrol that found it in a nearby garden.

The soldier, a 33-year-old father of three, was the 658th person killed in more than three years of Ulster violence between Protestants, Catholics, the British army and the I.R.A.

In Belfast a bomb wrecked a haulage company, injuring at least two men. The bomb was put on a lorry in the loading bay of the Northern Ireland carriers company.

Shells of flame poured through the building after corrugated metal roofing — some six metres square — were hurled into the main road 50 metres away. (UPI, INA)

What do you do to a naked general?

SAIGON (AP). — What does an air force enlisted man do when he meets a naked general?

He salutes.

An order issued on November 26 and signed by Maj. Paul M. Boesman, operations officer of the U.S. Air Force's 37th security police squadron at Tan Son Nhut airbase, says in part: "Salute when you recognize an officer even though you both, officer and noncommissioned officer, are nude."

An air force spokesman said this was "intended to emphasize the importance of saluting officers when recognized, whether in or out of uniform," which he said is Air Force policy.

He said he did not know under what circumstances officers and enlisted personnel might encounter each other in the nude.

The order was attached to a photograph of Brig.-Gen. Ralph Hollander, recently named vice-commander of the 7th Air Force with instructions that it be posted "in areas where it can be seen by all personnel," and passed out to airmen standing guard duty.

Castro greets Allende in Havana

MIAMI (UPI). — President Salvador Allende of Chile received a tumultuous welcome from Prime Minister Fidel Castro and thousands of cheering, flag-waving Cubans in Havana on Sunday night, Havana radio said.

The radio said crowds at Havana's Jose Marti airport and along the two-km. motorcade route into town shouted, "Viva Allende" (long live Allende), and waved Chilean and Cuban flags.

Allende, a Marxist and the first Latin American head of state to visit Cuba since Castro came to power, is scheduled to return to Chile tomorrow at the end of a tour that has included visits to Peru, Mexico, the United Nations, Algeria and the Soviet Union.

The official visit to Cuba returns a 25-day tour of Chile by Castro in November and December, 1971.

Britons say Anne right to fox-hunt

LONDON (AP). — Slightly more Britons approve of Princess Anne's riding to the hounds than disapprove, according to a Gallup poll published yesterday in the "Daily Telegraph."

The 22-year-old Princess came under fire from animal lovers and some Members of Parliament last month for joining a fox hunt on a friend's estate. But of 1,122 adults asked by the pollsters whether she was right or wrong, 43 per cent said right and 37 per cent wrong. The rest had no opinion.

Norwegian lured into espionage by Russian girl

OSLO — A 25-year-old Norwegian student working as a guard in the Norwegian Embassy in Moscow, spied for the Soviets after being lured into espionage by a pretty Russian girl, Oslo newspapers reported yesterday.

The Public Prosecutor's Office confirmed the man had been returned to Norway and had been charged with espionage for "a foreign power." The student, named by the newspaper, "Verdens Gang," as Ole Martin Høystad, was said to have made a partial confession to the charges.

A report in the newspaper, "Aftenposten," said security police arrested the student on November 29. He was charged under the most severe section of the criminal law involving a sentence of 10 years' jail if found guilty. This covers "crimes against the independence and security of the state." It was not immediately clear how the student-spy was unmasked.

The Ministry of Justice termed the student a low-ranked Embassy employee. All Oslo newspapers said he had been working for a year as a night watchman at the Moscow Embassy while studying Russian. The reports said he had been alone in the embassy at night with access to files and secret documents.

In recruiting the young Norwegian, the Russians used a female decoy, with whom the Norwegian started a romance, "Aftenposten" said. "Verdens Gang," said the girl had no link with Soviet intelligence when she met the Norwegian student. The newspaper said the two young people simply fell in love.

Ambassador Fritjof Jacobsen reportedly travelled to Oslo to report directly to the government about the affair and it was decided that Høystad should be sent back to Oslo. He was arrested upon his arrival here. The student had sent his letters as diplomatic mail, and these are reasons to believe that the Russians made him send coded messages to other Russian agents in Norway, the reports said. ### Another six months in Turkish jail for Timothy ANKARA (Reuters). — British schoolboy Timothy Davy was sentenced to six months, 21 days imprisonment here yesterday for escaping from a reformatory where he was serving a prison sentence for drug peddling.

The judge said the sentence would be added to the previous term of six years and three months to which the 15-year-old boy was sentenced this March for conspiring to sell 28 kilos of hashish.

A West German friend, Rolf Hermann, alleged to have helped Davy to escape, was sentenced to two months for aiding the boy and one month for possessing a forged passport. The judge said that as Hermann had already spent more than two months in custody awaiting trial, he would be freed immediately.

Davy slipped out of the Kalaba Reformatory dressed as a girl in jeans and wearing a wig. He and Hermann got as far as the frontier of Syria before being arrested. The boy told the court yesterday his mother, Mrs. Jill Davy, prepared the escape plan. He said that he lied in an earlier statement to police that his mother had nothing to do with his escape. The reason for the lie, he said, was to allow his mother to return to Turkey (she crossed into Syria on the day of the escape) without being charged.

As Davy and Hermann stood trial yesterday, negotiations appeared to be continuing behind the scenes for a formula under which Davy can be repatriated to Britain, perhaps before Christmas.

TANAKA BACK AT THE HELM DESPITE LEFTIST GAINS

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP). —

Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's Liberal-Democratic party won a general-election mandate yesterday for his plan to remodel the face of Japan. But strong Communist and Socialist gains raised the threat of trouble in carrying out the programme.

The Conservative Party that has ruled Japan since 1948 won 271 of the 491 seats in the Lower House of the Diet, and support from 14 Conservative Independents who were elected could bring the Government's majority to 39. That would be 24 votes short of the majority in the last house. The Liberal-Democrats lost 26 seats in the election that drew 53 million voters.

The Socialists again ran second, with 116, a gain of 51, while the Communists nearly tripled their total with 38, the highest ever in 12 post-war elections. In the old house, they had 14.

The big losers, with the Liberal-Democrats, were the middle-of-the-road opposition. The Komeito, a creation of the Buddhist Sokagakki sect which recently broke with its parent, dropped from 47 to 29 seats, and the Democratic Socialists dropped from 29 to 19. Two men were elected from minor parties.

Campaigning in his first national test since becoming Prime Minister

In July, Mr. Tanaka made a major issue of his programme to resettle millions of people and scores of major industries in less populated areas. The Socialists and Communists charge that Tanaka's plan would spread pollution over the entire archipelago. They will be aiming for more gains in 1973 and, if they get them, could put obstacles in the way of the programme, which would take years to carry out.

In a post-election television appearance, Mr. Tanaka said he would press ahead with his plan and said his first step would be to create a new administrative agency to carry it out.

Mr. Tanaka said his first priority internationally would be to shave down Japan's huge trade imbalance with the U.S. He added that, although Japan will not take part in any post-war political conference on Vietnam, it expects to contribute to its reconstruction.

Mr. Tanaka conceded that the Liberal-Democrats had fallen 10 seats short of what he had hoped. He said he was astonished at the Communist increase. Elected by professional-looking Sanno News, once a friend of Mao Tse-tung in Yenan, the Communist Party has achieved over the years a kind of respectability in contrast to its reputation for violence in the 1940s.

Today the Communists frown on violence, disassociate themselves from Peking, and rely chiefly on their official organ, the newspaper "Akahata," with a circulation of more than one million, to spread the Marxist word. Previously it has been legally restricted because of its small size in what it could do or say in the Diet. As this third ranking opposition party, it now will speak with a louder voice. What it says will determine whether it continues to grow, or goes into decline. Its victory was accomplished without recourse to any of the major issues which once enflamed past political campaigns — Vietnam, Okinawa and the U.S. Security Treaty. These questions, largely resolved, played little part in a generally muted campaign.

Although the Liberal Democrats won a majority of the seats, their share of the over-all vote was less than half — 46.9 per cent compared to 41.9 for the Socialists, 10.5 for the Communists, 8.7 for Komeito, 7 for the Democratic Socialists and 5 for others.

Most of the independent winners are expected to join Tanaka's party before the Lower House is called into session later this month.

Meanwhile, the National Police Agency said police throughout Japan arrested a total of 253 campaign workers — 133 during the campaign and 120 after the election. Police also prepared 220 warrants for further arrests. Most of the accusations involved "winning" or "losing" voters and vote-buying.

Army moves in to clear Paris rubbish

PARIS. — The French army moved in on Paris yesterday to begin carting away huge mounds of rubbish which have piled up on the pavements since dustmen went on strike six days ago. The decision to call in the army was taken by Paris Prefect Jean Verdier who stressed he was not trying to break the strike but merely to protect the capital's health. The army was called in once before in 1970 to clear away Paris's rubbish during another dustmen's strike.

Almost three-quarters of the 4,700 dustmen, who normally empty the capital's dustbins daily, have followed the strike call over demands for increased wages, better working conditions and leather aprons for all. Those who want to work in spite of the strike will be used on other jobs while the army does theirs, Mr. Verdier said in a statement. He added that he was surprised at the decision to continue the strike as the Paris Council had already agreed to the dustmen's main demand — two days off after six days work instead of the present seven.

Yesterday the garbage men voted to continue their work stoppage for a further 24 hours. Representatives of the street cleaners said they had received no response from city authorities to their plea for negotiations. (Reuters, UPI)

India, Pakistan sign Kashmir border pact

NEW DELHI (UPI). — India and Pakistan signed an agreement yesterday on the line of control in Kashmir, the defence ministry announced.

Army commanders of the two sides, Lt. Gen. P.S. Bhagat of India, and Lt. Gen. Abdul Hamid Khan of Pakistan, signed delineation maps and documents at a brief ceremony at the Indian border checkpoint of Suchetgarh, 640 km. northwest of here.

Government sources said India's ratification was expected by the weekend.

After ratification by both sides, troops of the two nations will start pulling out from each other's territory, occupied during the 14-day war last December.

Sources said Indian troops will complete their withdrawal from Pakistani territory before the year-end.

FIRST PHASE
The troop withdrawals complete the first phase of the Simla summit agreement signed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan on July 3.

The second phase of the agreement calls for repatriation of prisoners of war.

Meanwhile, at least two students are believed to have been killed in Lahore yesterday after police opened fire on a demonstration at the old Punjab University campus in the heart of the city.

Trouble started when hundreds of students from Lahore colleges and the university attempted to stage a parade, shouting: "No recognition of Bangladesh — Pakistan is one."

On Sunday night, over 200 students were arrested and detained as they surrounded the residence of the University vice-chancellor and ransacked his house.

SIGNALMAN IS BLAMED IN BULGARIAN TRAIN CRASH NATIONAL OPINION POLL The French left-wing could beat Gaullists

SOFIA. — An express passenger train smashed into a freight train in eastern Bulgaria on Sunday, killing 26 persons and injuring 10 others, BTA, Bulgaria's official news agency, reported yesterday, blaming the crash on faulty signalling.

The express train was travelling from Sofia to Tolbukhin in eastern Bulgaria when it struck the freight train, which had halted at a signal. Most of the victims were in a sleeping car that caught fire after the collision.

BTA's home service, issued to Bulgarian newspapers, pinned the blame for the crash on a signalman from Vechnan. It identified the man as Ivan Ovcharov and said the crash would not have happened if not for his faulty signalling. BTA, which did not report the crash until yesterday, said a Government commission was set up to probe the incident. (AP, UPI)

PARIS. — A national public opinion poll published yesterday indicated the Communist-dominated left-wing opposition may defeat the Gaullists in the March 1973 parliamentary elections.

The poll, published by the Conservative newspaper "Figaro," showed that the number of Frenchmen ready to vote for the left-wing front increased from 43 to 45 per cent between November and early this month. By contrast the number of Frenchmen prepared to back the Gaullist coalition dropped from 42 to 38 per cent, according to the poll carried out by the Sofres Public Opinion Institute.

Several polls in recent weeks already indicated that the left-wing union, grouping the Communists, Socialists and the left-wing faction of the Radical Socialists, might beat the Gaullists for the first time since Charles De Gaulle established the Fifth Republic in 1958.

The poll showed the opposition Centrist Reform Movement picking up two points to gain 15 per cent of the vote. If the poll holds true, this would mean President Georges Pompidou would have to form a Cabinet with the Reformists.

Under the French system, if no candidate gains an absolute majority in the first round, the voters go to the polls a week later to make a selection by simple majority. The system leads to hard bargaining about which candidates retire after the first round. The Reformists have said they will fight the Government candidate unless that means a left-wing will win.

The latest poll coincided with stepped up charges by Gaullist leaders that the powerful Communist Party, in the event of a left-wing victory, would soon eliminate its election bloc allies and establish a dictatorship in France.

For the first time since World War II the Communists and their partners are going into the battle for control of the 489-seat National Assembly with a joint programme promising radical economic and social reforms while maintaining and even increasing the citizen's rights and liberties. The left-wing union's leaders have put President Georges Pompidou on notice. They expected him to allow the left-wing union to form the next Cabinet if it won the election.

'INDEPENDENT'
Communist Party delegates from all over France and overseas territories flocked to Paris for a three-day congress, opening today in the north Paris working class district of Saint Ouen. The congress, party sources said, will approve resolutions pledging the party to act as a French faction fully independent from foreign influences.

The 20th party congress will emphasize the party leaders' line that each country must be free to build its own specific brand of socialism, the sources said. The move would facilitate the party's efforts to combat Gaullist charges it was taking its orders from Moscow and has approved of the Soviet "normalization" of the Prague regime, observers said.

Socialist leader Francois Mitterrand said in a campaign speech on Sunday in Narbonne, Southern France "a coup like the one in Prague is possible only if there are Russian tanks around. How can one envisage such a possibility while Soviet diplomacy is busy maintaining a status quo in Europe?"

French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and other Gaullist officials fired a new barrage of accusations that the Communists were a threat to France. Mr. Schumann told a Gaullist meeting "the very condition for a policy of overtures to the East is that the French Communist Party must neither directly nor indirectly become a mortgage on the Government of this country." FOG. — About 100 cars piled up in a chain collision yesterday on the fog-covered Milan-Como highway of the lakes. Police said at least three persons were killed and 30 injured.

Egypt demobilizes 37,000 servicemen this week

CAIRO (UPI). — The Egyptian government will demobilize 37,000 conscript servicemen next Friday, government sources said yesterday.

The servicemen will return to their civilian jobs after demobilization, the sources said, but they will remain liable to recall for reserve duty until the age of 40. Military authorities demobilized 50,000 troops last July.

The latest move came while the Egyptian Parliament debated the need for stepped-up measures to prepare the country for a possible new round of fighting with Israel.

The sources said there was no conflict between the demobilization and the increased military preparedness because Egypt has a surplus of manpower for conscription purposes.

Drafting age in Egypt is 18, but in the case of university graduates, conscription is postponed until after they complete their studies — usually at the age of 22 to 24.

Technically, the term of military service is 18 months for university graduates and three years for others. But the 1967 war and subsequent developments have forced prolongation of military service.

Those who are about to be demobilized were drafted in 1965 and after. One-third of them are university graduates. The sources said the demobilization appeared to be in response to public calls for shorter conscription periods to avoid causing hardship to families of conscripts and to prevent manpower shortages in civilian jobs.

The latest of such calls came in a parliamentary report on government policy which was made public on Saturday. The report said, "If we are preparing ourselves for a war which might drag on for a long time, then we should reconsider frankly the problem of the massive number of conscripts whose military service has been prolonged and who have had to leave their normal (civilian) jobs sometimes even before they started them, as in the case of university graduates."

SWARTHY 'GUNMEN' CAUSE STIR AT DUBLIN AIRPORT

DUBLIN (AP). — Two swartthy travellers from Rome caused a stir at Dublin Airport on Sunday when they produced two crates of Thompson submachine guns and revolvers.

Startled customs officers alerted the airport's security force. The area was cleared, and police and detectives surrounded the men. The two men produced papers from the Italian Interior Ministry and protested in broken English that their arsenal be let through.

Police alarm grew when one of the men said they were in a hurry to start shooting. The weapons were impounded. But, after a few hours of explanation, it was established that the guns were movie props for a satire on "The Godfather," to be filmed in Dublin. It is titled "Mother Maria's Loving Fold."

Director Aldo Caltabiano said he had the Italian Government's permission to export the weapons but did not know he needed an Irish import licence. The Irish authorities said they would keep the guns until the situation was clarified.

CUSTODY OF A MURDERER'S BABY DAUGHTER

The Supreme Court, by majority decision, dismissed an appeal against a guardianship order issued by the Haifa District Court.

The appellant was sentenced to life imprisonment for murdering his wife. At the time of the murder the couple had a six-year-old son, who was a witness to the killing, and a four-year-old daughter. The murdered woman's parents were given custody of their grandson over him but the baby girl was put in an institution.

NOW THE TOURIST SEASON IS OVER, MAKE THE MOST OF TWA'S 747 AMBASSADOR SERVICE TO AMERICA.

Even when you're sitting in just one of TWA's specially designed lumbar support seats, you get a more comfortable flight than on anyone else's 747.

But at this time of year, we can often do you even better.

And, as more than one experienced traveller has discovered, being able to spread yourself on a TWA Ambassador Service 747 can make a big difference to a trip to America.

We can't, of course, always promise a row of seats all to yourself.

But we certainly can always promise the things which make every Ambassador Service flight better.

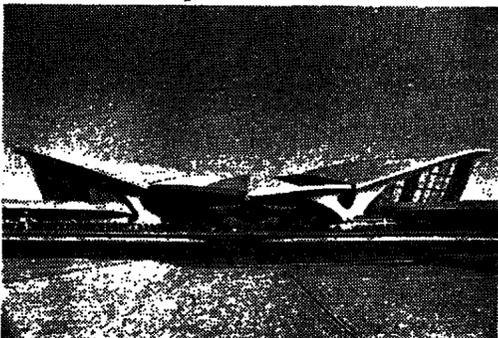

On Ambassador Service, you always get a choice of three main courses.

Two films.*

Smoking or strictly non-smoking areas.

You also get the important choice of quick attention when you want it, and being left in peace when you don't.

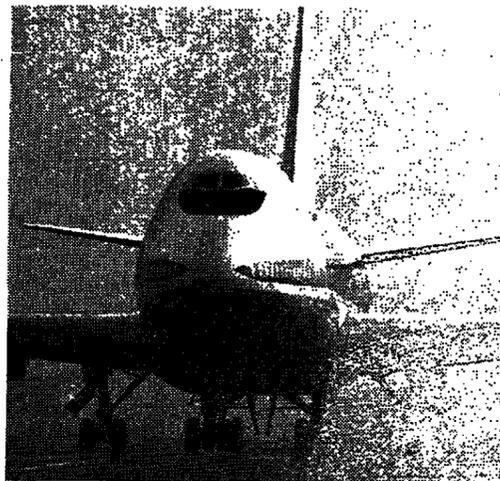

And when you get to New York, you get the benefit of TWA's unique terminal.

TWA is the only airline to have a terminal to itself at Kennedy Airport.

And as it only handles about twenty international flights a day, our terminal can usually give you one of the quickest and most pleasant entries you've ever had to the United States.

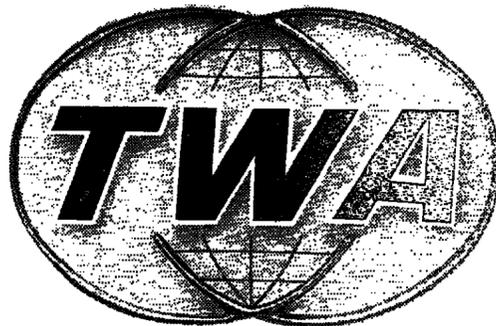

As well as convenient TWA connections to 35 US cities.
